THETIS Authentics Ltd (Athens, Greece)

offers products and services based on the application of scientific methods and techniques to cultural heritage. These include

(i) Scientific examination of archaeological and historical artefacts.
(ii) Authentic reproduction of ancient manufacturing techniques and artefacts (iii) expert opinion and consultancy (iv) archiving and handling of data in history and archaeology. The company's policy is to deal with each project in an individual way by mobilising the most suitable team of experts from the fields of Physical and Natural Sciences, Information Technology, Archaeology and Art History. Products and services are addressed to the Greek and International markets and concern Museums, the Greek Archaeological Service, Private Collectors, Conservators, Artisans, Educational and Research Institutions and Cultural Tourism Organisations. The Company is presently engaged in small scale production of technologically authentic reproductions of ancient ceramic artefacts that are offered through museum shops in Greece and the US. Major recent projects have been the production of technologically authentic reproductions of ceramic artefacts discovered during the construction of the new Athens Metro and in Ancient Corinth. These are exhibited in the Athens Metro "Akropolis" underground station and the new suburban train terminal station in Corinth.
